To give a name, is a token of command and authority. The father gives names to his children and tlaves. It is said, that Adam gave a name to his wife, and to all the animals, and that the name he gave them became their true name. God changed the name of Abram, Jacob and Sarai; which expresses his absolute dominion over all men, and his particular benevolence towards those whom he receives more especially into the number of his own: Hence it was that he gave a name, even before their birth, to some persons whom he appointed for great purposes, and who be longed to him in a particular manner; such as to Jedidiah, or Solomon, som of David; to the Messiah, to John the Baptist, &c.

I then. 10. Tim. 5. Tim. Babylon the great is m. of post in the sev one sort are such as would never have been know without revealed, may be without revealed, may be in a good measure explained and understood Such is the dectrine of the he satisfaction of Christ of the resurrection from the dead, of the forgive not of sun for the sake of Christ's sufferings and of eternal life in a future world. The other ness of time for the sake of Christ's sufferings, and of cternal life in a justre world. The other word of mysterics are those, which when revealed to us, we know the existence, or reality and certainty of them, but cannot comprehend the maner and mode how they are. These are the mystery of the blessed Trinity, and the mystery of the incarnation of Christ; or the union of the dicine and human natures in one person. The calling of the Gentiles, which was hid and kept secret for many ages, is called a mystery, Rom. 16. 25. Col. 1. 26, 27. The spiritual union between Christ and his church is called an mystery, because it exceeds human undermystery, because it exceeds human tanding, and is revealed only to to a mystery, occasio is erceas numan under-standing, and is revealed only to the chil-dren of God, Eph. 5.32. Mark 4.11. The gospel is called the mystery of godliness, 1 Tim. guspel 3. 16.

gospol is called the mystery or gomeston, he coming, the characters, the death and passion, of the Messiah, are to be found in a mulnitude of places in the Old Testament, but ofter a figurative and mysterious manner. The actions, the words the hife of the prophets were a continual and general prophecy, which was concealed from the spee of the people, and cometimes from the prophets themselves, and was not explained or discovered, till after the birth and death of Christ; and these mysteries were dispensed in so wonderful a method, and by so usice a providence, that the first served as a foundation for the second, and the succeeding gove new light to those that went before. They still improved in clearness and studence, and the Holy Ghost dispensed them by measure, and in due de-journation, the that went before. They still improved in clearness and evidence, and the Iloly Ghost dispensed them by measure, and in due degrees. Daniel it more explicit than the prophets before him; Ilaggai, Zechariah, and Malachi, speak of the coming, of the death, and of the priesthood of Jesus Christ, and of the calling of the Gentiles, after a more plain and distinct manner than the other prophets before them. The mysteries of the Christian religion, is that of the blessed Trinity, the incarnation of Christ, his hypostatical union with his human neutre, his miraculous birth, his death, resurrection, and ascension, the predestination, and reprobation of men; the grace of Jesus Christ, and the manner of its operation in our hearts; the resurrection of the dead, with all the other mysteries revealed to us both in the Old and New Testement, are the objects of the faith of all true Christians; io us both in the Old and New Testament, are the objects of the faith of all true Christians; and the doctrine of the gaspel, and these tenets of Christianity were called mysteries, not only because they were secrets which would not have been known, if the Son of God, and his Holy Spirit had not revealed them to believers, but also Spirit had not revealed them to believers, but also became they were not revealed indifferently to every body. The command of our Lord Jesus Christ to his apostles was in this case put in gractice, Give not that which is holy unto dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, Max. 7. 6. They preached the gospel only to those who seriously desired to be instructed in it; nor did they presently discover to them all the mysteries of religion; but in proportion as they became capable to receive them.

MURDER

† 39. thus shall ne do in the shall ne do in the shall need to MURDER
Signifies, [1] The taking away of a man's life unlarfully, Mark 15.7. [2] All cruelty in thought, word, or deed, Mat. 19.18. I John 3.15. Voluntary murder was always punished with death, but involuntary or accidental murder, among the liebrews, was only punished by banishment. Cities of rejuge were appointed for involuntary manulampher, whicher they make retire, and continue in safety, till the death of the high-priest; than the offender was at liberty when the safety and his own house, if the high-piest; then the offender was at liberty to return to his own city, and his own house, st he pleased. But as for the voluntary murderer, he was put to death without any remission, and he was put to death without any remission, and the kinsmen of the murdered person might kill him with impunity. Money could not redeem his life; he was dragged away, even from the altar, if he had taken refuge there, Num. 35, 27, 28, 31. The ceremony used by the 1s-raeliues, when a dead body was found in the Riedis slein by a murderer unknown, as it is recorded, Deut. 21. from verse 1.to 9, may inform us, what idea they had of the heimourness of murder, and how much horror they conceived at this crime; and also the fear they were in that God might take vengeance for it on the whole country; and of the pollution that the country was supposed to contract, by the blood that was spile in it, unless it were expiated, or country was supposed to contract, by the blood that was spilt in it, unless it were expiacts or revenged upon him that was the occasion of it, if he could by any means be discovered. MON MONTH

The Hebrews had their Sacred and Civil year; the he Hebrews had their Sacred and Civil year; the former for the celebration of their feasts and religious ceremonies, which began with the month Nison, or March; the latter for the ordering of their political or civil affairs, which began in Tisri, or September. The ancient Hebrews had no particular names to express their brews had no particular names to express their Months; they said, the first, second, third, and so on. In Exod. 13. 4. we find Moses makes mention of the month Abib, or the month of the powling ears of corn, or of the new fruits, which is probably the name that the Exyptian gave to the month which the Hebrews afterwards which is grobably the name that the Egyptians gave to the month which the Hebrews afterwards called Nisan, and which was the first of the holy year; every where eite Moses marks out the months only by their order of succession, which method is continued in the books of Johna, Judges, and Samuel. Under Solomou, I Kings 6, 1. we read of the month Zif, which is the second month of the holy year, and which answers to that which ofterwards had the name of Jiar, or April. In the same chapter, verus 83. we read of the month Bul, which is the eighth of the holy year, and answers to Marchesvan, or October. Lastly, in I Kings 8, 2. we read of the month Ethanim, which answers to Tixti, or the seventh of the holy year. The critics are not agreed about the origin of these names of the months, or from whom they were borrowed. But after the ceptivity of Baylon, the Hebrews took the names of the months, as they found them among the Chaldens and Persian, among whom they had lived to long a time. Here follow the names of these months, and the order in which they follow one another.

he names and order of the months in the Civil year, are the same as in the praceding table, only beginning the year with Tisri, or September, and ending with Elul, or August. At first they measured their months according

At first they measured their months according to the nun, and then every month consisted of thirty days, which appears by the enumeration of the days the flood was upon the earth, namely, a hundred and fifty days, which made five months, Gen. 7. 11. 8. 4. But after they came out of Egypt, they measured their month by the course of the moon, and then the first month was of thirty days, the nest of twentynine, and so on alternately: That which had thirty days was called a full or complete month: and that which had but twenty-nine days was called incomplete, or deficient. The new moon was always the beginning of the month, and and that which had but twenty-nine days was called incomplete, or deficient. The new moon was always the beginning of the month, and that day they called Neomenia, new Moon, or new Month.

When it is said, that the Hebrew month answered to ours; that Nisan, for example, answered to March, it must be understood with answered to March, it must be understood with some latistude: for the linear months can never be reduced exactly to solar ones. The vernal equinos falls in the month of March, according to the course of the solar year. But in the linear year, the new moon will fall in the month of March, and the full moon in the month of April, So that the Hebrew months, will commonly answer to two of our months, and partake of both. The twelve levear months making but three hundred and fitte-four days, and six hours, the and partials of both.

The twelve lioner months making but three hundred and fifty-four days, and six hours, the lewish year was short of the Roman by twelve days. But to recover the equinoctial points again, from which this difference of the solar and dunar year wends separate the new moon of the first month, the Jews took care every three years to intercalate a thirteenth month into their year, which they called Ve-adax, or the second Adar: And by this means their lunar year equalled the solar: because in thirty-six menths, according to the Sun, there would be thirty-seven according to the Sun, there would be thirty-seven according to the Moon.

Our Saviour confirmed the dac-trine which he taught by a train of incontestible miracles: They were so great in their nature, so real and solid in their proof, so divine in the manner of performing them, by the power of his will; so holy in their end, to confirm a doctrine most becoming the wirdom and other glorious attributes of God, and for the ac-complishment of the prophecies concerning the Massion between the training the Messiah, whose coming was foretold to be with miraculous healing benefits; that there was the atest assurance, that none without the om-sosent hand of God could do them. The maprentest assurance greatest assurance, that wone without the omipotent hand of God could be them. The magicians performed divers wonders in Egypt, but they were outdone by Moses, to convince the spectators, that he was sent from a power infinitely superior to that of evil spirits. Real miracles that are contrary to the o der, and exceed the power of nature, can only be produced by creating power, and are wrought to give credit to those who are sent from God; and when God permits false miracles to be done by seducers, that would thereby obtain authority and credit among men, the deception is not invincible; for it is foretold expressly, to give us warning, that the man of sin shall come with lying wonders efter the working of Satan, 2 Theas. 2. 9, but the heavenly doctrine of the gospel has been confirmed by real miracles, incomparably greater than all the strange things done to give credit to doctrines opposed to it.

Or, Propitiatory, was the covering of the ark of the covenant, or of the holy chest, in which the tables of the law were deposited: This cover west of gold, and at its two ends were fixed the two cherubinus of the same metal, which by their wings extended forward, seemed to form a throne for the majesty of God, who in scrippure is represented as sitting between the cherubinus, Psal. 80. 1. and the ark tistelf was at it were his footstood. It was an ominent type of Christ, who by his atonement, covered our sun, and bore the curse of the law for our sakes, that God might look on the law through Christ, as judfilled by him on our behalf, Gal. 3. 10, 13. It is reported, that in the province of Pekin in China, there is a kind of Mandrake valuable, that a pound of that root is worth thrice its weight in silver; for they say it so wonderfully restores the sinking spirits of dying persons, that there is often that for the use of other means, and thereby recovering them to life and health. Those Mandrakes which Reuben brought home to his mother, are by some called Violets, by others Lilies, or Jeaamin, by others Citrons. Some reckon them to be such agreeable flowers of the field, wherewith children were pleased; Reuben that gathered them being then only pire or six years of age.

MAN.

Ian was, in his original state, a very noble and exalted creature; being placed as the head and lord of this world, having all the creatures in subjection to him. The powers and operations of his mind were extensive, capacious, and perfect; capable of contemplating upon the works of God with pleasure and delight, and of performing his will without the least deviation. But by sinning against his Creator, his mind is visitated, corrupted, and debated; and this visitated, corrupted, and debated; and this in a ruined, lost, miserable, and wretched state: Hence is is asked, What is man? Psal. 8. 4.

The Hebraw word for man is Enoch; that is, sorry, wretched, and incurably sick, to denote his condition in his apostacy from God.

Be ye lift up, ye everiasting doors, Pial, 24, 7.

All ye true members of the church, raise up your hearts and souls, which are of an everlasting and immortal nature, from all earthly things, and set them open for the reception of Christ the King of glory.

Hath behaved himself susolently, contemptunally, and injuriously towards me. It is a phrase taken from an enruly horse, who kicks at him that owns and feeds him.

Lift not up the horn, Pial, 75, 4. Carry not yourselves arrogantly, econfully, or maliciously towards me or any of God's people.

Lift up the feet, Pial, 74, 3. Come speedily to our help, and for our deliverance.

Comes from the Greek, Hypocrisis: It is a consterfeiting religion and virtue; an affectation of the name, joined with a disaffection to the thing; or, the having a form of godlines with denying the power of it. Thus he is a hypocrite that the state of denying the power of it. Thus he is a hypocrite who feigns to be what he is not, who puts on a falsa person, like the actors in Tragedies and Comedies. Our Saviour frequently accused the Pharisses of hypocrity, Mat. 23. 13, 14, 4c. Their character is drawn out in that chapter; as (1) They say and do not, verue 3. their practice was not agreeable to their dectrine, and therefore their example was not to be imitated; for thus immeased man extrict impressions and for they imposed many strict injunctions, over and above what the law required, and severely for they imposed many strict injunctions, over and above what the law required, and severely exacted obdience thereto from others, but did not observe the least part thereof themselves, verme 6. (2) What good things they did, were only for ostentation, to be seen of men, verme 5. (3) They ambitiously affected tilles, sain applicance, and the precedency at entertainments, verse 6—12. (4) They hid their crying ins under the colourable appearance of virtues, and pretended to holiness that they might ain with less suspicion and more security, verse 14. These our Savieur compares to whited sepulchres, that within contain sordied dust and rottemacy, verses 27, 28. (5) They were exact so light matverses 27, 28. (5) They were eract in light mat-ters, they tithed mint and cummin, but neglect-ed substantial dusies: They were sealous in the outward parts of religious worthip, and neglected righteousnes and mercy, thinking to compensate their defects in the duties of one table, by strictly their defects in the emisse of one teste, by structus observing the duties of the other, verses $2,24. (6) They studied rather an externel purity, than the inword purity of the heart, verse $5. (7) These hypocritical Scribes and Pharisees pretended a great deal of respect to the ancient prophets, and to disallow what their jathers did to phets, and to disallow what their fathers did to them, and yet were as ready to practise the like themselves to Christ and his Apostles, verses $9, 30, 31. (8) Hypocrites pray to God only in the time of sickness and danger, when by their afflictions they are driven to it, but shew no love to prayer or delight in God in time of prayer parity, 30 bt. 78, 8, 9, 10. (9) They judged and conserved others exverely for smaller faults, being in the meen time themselves guilty of greater crimes, Mat. 7. 5. (10) They were more for ourward ceremonies and human traditions then for the true and spiritual worship of God, Mat. 12. 1. 2, 7. 15. 2, 7, 8, 9. (11) In worldly affairs they were quick-sighted, not so in spiritual and heavenly things, Mark 3. 4. (12) Hypocrites in public calamities are fearful, las. 33. 14. crisy is difficultly cured, in that i

This sin of hypo is not easily discovered by men, and does not ex-pose to shame, but is subservient to many carna pose to thame, but is subservient to many carnal ends. Men cannot dive into the hearts of others, and cannot discern between the penin of hypocrisy and the life of holiness. Hypocrisy elso turns the means of talvation into posion; for the frequent exercise of religious duties, which is the means to sanctify others, confirms and hardens hypocrites.

confirms and hardens hypocrities, he effectual means to cure it, is a steadfast belief of the pure and all-seeing eye of God; who sear sin wherever it is, and will bring it into judgment. A hypocrite may hide his sin from the eyes of others, and sometimes from his earn conscience, but can never impute wpon God.
The steadfast belief of this truth will cause

Before him we find no horsemen mantioned in the armies of israel. God forbid the kings of his people to keep many horses, Deut. 17. 10. Hereby God would prevent oppression and tyrnmy, and the imposition of nunacessary burdens and tazes upon his people; as also carnal confidence in the kings, which by this means would be promoted. As in Psal. 20. 7, Some trust in charlots, and some in horses. By this God would likewise prevent their having commerce with Egypt, which by the following the was famous for horses. David having wom a great battle against Hadadezer king of Zobah, took seventeen knudred horses, and lamed all belonging to the chariots of war, reserving all belonging to the chariots of war, reserving only an hundred chariots, 2 Sam. 8.4. HOSANNA

It is an Hebrew word, which signifies, Save I beseech you. It is a form of acclamation, of blessing, or withing one well. Thus at the Savious's entrance into Jerusalem, when the people critical Hosanna to the Son of David; their meaning was, Lord preserve this Son of David; this king: keep favours and blessing: on him. The word is found in Mat. 21, 9, 15. Mark 11, 9, 10, lobn 10; 10 word is found John 12, 13,

HOSEN. Dan. 3.21, these men were bound in HOSPITALITY

Signifies love to strangers, expressed in entertaining and using them kindly, Rom. 12, 13. It has always been very much in esteem among civilized people. The Seripture furnishes us with several esomples of hospitality exercised by the patriarchs. Abraham received three angles, and carnestly invited them, and served them himself; while Sarah his wife took care to make ready provisions for his guest, Gen. 18. 2, 3, &c. Lot waited at the city-gate to receive such guests as might come thither, Gen. 19. 1.2, &c. St. Paul makes use of Abraham's and Lot's example to encourage the faithful, and persuade them to the exercise of hospitality, saying, that they who have practized it, hat they who have practized it. saying, that they who have practised it, have had the honour of receiving angels under the form of men, fleb. 13. 2.

Use hospitality one to another without grudging. And St. Paul recommends this dws. perticularly to such as are overseers in the church of God, 1 Tim. 3. 2. Our Saviour sells his apostles, Mat. 10. 40, 42, 11e that receiveth you receiveth me: And whosover shall give to drink unto one of these little ones, a cup of cold water only. he shall in no wise lose his reward.

Ind in Mat. 25. 41, 43, 45. at the day of judgment he will say to the wicked, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire; I was a stranger, and ye took me not in. In as much as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to one are principal past of their days to consist in the exercise of hospitality; and they were to exact in the discharge of it that the very heathens admired them for it. They were hospitable to all strangers, but chiefly to those that were of the same faith and communion. The principal defence and greatest strength of horned beasts consist in their horns; and the acripture mentions the horn as the symbol of strength. Moses compares Joseph to a young bullock, and says, that his horns are like the horns of unicorns; that is, his strength and power thad be very great, Deut. 33. 17. And in Psal. 132. 17, 1 will make the horn of David to bud; I will make his power and glory to flowrish and increase. I will cut off the horns of the wicked, Psal. 75. 10. So in Jer. 48. 25, The horn of Moseb is cut off. In Psal. 44. 5, a victory over enemies is expressed 48. 25. The horn of Mond in cut off. In Paal. 44. 5, a victory over exemies is expressed by these words, Through thee we will push down our enemies: in Hebrew, we will smite with the horn, we will subdue, destroy, and disperse them, as a built subdue, destroy, and disperse them, as a built superses every thing that comes before him with his horns. Sorn, signifies litewise glory, honour, brightness, and rays. 1 Sam. 2.1, Mine horn is exalted in the Lord; my glory is advanced and manifested; God hath loaded me with honour. Job says, I have defiled my horn in the dust. I have a parted with all my glory and dignity,

I have parted with all my glory and dignity, and been contented to lie in the dust, Job 16. 15. The Paalmist says, I said to the wicked, lift not up the horn; Do not carry wicked, lift not up the horn; Do not carry gonusalves either arrogantly, housing of your own strength, or scornfully and maliciously to-mards me, Paal, 75. 4. In Hab, 3. 4, is is said, God came from Paran, and his brightness was as the light, and he had horns coming out of his hand, or, beams and rays of light, that is, glorious manifestations of his power in these his acts. Or, according to others, having his hands armed with flaming datts, and fary arrows.

Lingdoms and great powers are often described by the word horns. It is thus Daniel represents the power of the Persians, of the Greeks, of Syria and Egypt. He represents Darius and Alexander like a goal and a ram running violently at each other with their horns, Dan. 8. 3, 5, 6. The Hebrews, by the word horn, sometimes understood an emisence, an angle, a viney and in a very fruitful hill, Hes, in the horn of the son of oil: my beloved hath a vineyard in a very fruitful hill, Hes, in the horn of the son of oil: my beloved has a vineyard situated on an emisence, or on the corner of a rich and jertile mountain. The horns of the alter of burnt of string were emisence or spires at the four corners of it, which were not only for ornament, but also for use, either to keep things put upon them from falling, or that beasts to be offered might be bound to them, as the Psalmist terms to instinuate, Psal. 118. 57. As the ancients frequently made use of horms to hold dispose, the vascels wherein oil use put, and perfumes, are called often horms, whether they really were of horm, or of any other matter. HORNET.

HORNETS are a cost of strong flies which the Lord used as instruments to plague the enemies of his people. They are of themselves very troublesome and mischievous; but those the Lord made use of vere, it is thought, like the flies wherewish he plagued Egypt, of an extraordinary bigness, and perniciousness. It is said, they live a the usery, that they have a king or captain, and pestilent stings as best, and that if trenty-seven of them sting men or beast, it is certain death to either. Not is it strange that nuch creatware did drive out the Cananites from their habitations; for many heathen writers give instances of some people driven from their seats by frogs, others by mice, others by best and versys; of which see Herodotus, Diodorus, Piliny, Elian, Justin, &c. And it is raid, that a christien city, being basieged by Saporea, 'king of Pertit, was delivered by hornets; fer the elephants and beatt boing stung by them, "maxed unrais, and so the whole army fled."

HONEY.

Bece are some of the smallest continers that fly, and the produce of them is the sweetest thing in the world. The scripture describing a troop of enemies pursing with obtainery and wermth, makes nee of the similitude of bees. Deut. 1. 44, The Amorites chased you as bees. And in Paal. 118.12, They compassed me about like bees. As to honey, God did not permit any to be offered to him upon his alter. Lev. 2.11, there are many reasons given has dependency of this man reasons given for the expediency of this shall burn no leaven, nor any honey, in any offering of the Lord made by Live. There are many reasons given for the espediency of this law; such as, that honey does not agree well with other things, which are offered in the way of secrifice, that it makes bread sour, and is not good with reast mant; or because bees are insects which are judged to be unclean, Lev. 11. 23. Or because honey is the symbol of carnal pleasures; or, lestly, to keep at a distance from the customs of the heathens, who were used to offer honey in their secrifices. Set at the same time that God forbids any honey to be offered to him in sacrifice, he commands the first-fruits of it to be presented to him, Lev. 2. 12. As for the oblation of the first-fruits, ye shall offer them unto the Lord; but these first-fruits and efferings were designed for the support and nustenance of the priests, and were not offered upon the altar. The Rabbins, by the word honey in the above-cited place, understand not only the honey of beat, but likewise the honey of deets, but likewise the honey of deets, from which honey is estracted.

The expressions of seripture which import so fixquently that Palestine was a land flowing with milk and honey, are a good proof that honey was formerly very common in that country. Muges says, that the Lord made his people to such honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock, Deut. 32. 13. Honey ren woon the ground in the forest, where Jonathan dipped the and of his staff in this liquor, and conveyed it to his mouth, 1. Sam. 14. 25, 26, 27. John the Baptist fed upon wild honey, which was found to be in the rocks up and down the constry, or in hollow trees, Mat. 3. 4. Children were jed with milk, cream, and honey. Isa. 7. 15. Butter and honey thall he eat, that he good. This was the sweetest and most delicious thing which was then known hefore the invention and preparation of suger, and therefore things that are sweet, pleasent, and agreeable, are no scripture compared to it. As the word of God, Paal. 119, 103. Wisdom, Prov. 24. 15, 18. God complains of Jerusalem for offering that bread, oil, and honey to idols, which he had given to the inhabitants thereof for their nourishment, Exek. 16. 13, 19. And Solomon observes, that too great a quantity of honey is harrful to the stomach, and creates a loathing, Prov. 25. 16.

Christian hope is a firm expectation of all promised good things, so jar as they may be jot God's glory and our good, but especially of esternal salvation and happeness in hearm where we shall be conformed to the Son of God which hope is founded on the grace, blood rightsourness, and intercession of Christ, and the carnest of the Holy Spirit in our heart and the wuckangeable truth and almighty power of God, which always second his word.

This hope is distinguished from worldly hopes, (1 By the excellency of the object, which is a sternal state of glory and joy; whereas worldly hopes are terminated on empty vanishing things gilded over with the thin appearance of good (2) By the stability of its foundation, namely God's wuchangeable truth, and almighty power of God cannot lie, and consequently neither decive our faith, nor disappoint our hopes; an he can do all things, which the aposition make the ground of his confidence. 2 Tim. 1. It know whom I have believed, and I am per suaded that he is able to keep that which have committed to him against that day. Its worldly hopes are always uncertain: There is so much of impotence or decis in all the mean used to obtain human desires, that the succisies doubtful. (3) Divine hope is distinguish from carnal presumption, by its inseparable effect, it has a cleansing efficacy. I John 3, Every man that hath this hope is him pur fieth himself, even as he is pure. He ended to shaw all sin, and to be perfacting he liness. He purifies himself by the assistent of the Holy Spirit, from whom the spiriting life, and all the operations of it, do proved Distract and implication of wind, louse and implication of wind, louse and implication.

of the Holy Spirit, from whom the spiritus life, and all the operations of it, do proceed but vein and groundless hopes are impuration of wind, louse and ineffective.

The Hope of Israel, is the Messiah, the Lord Jest Christ. Acts 28. 20, For the hope of Israel am bound with this chain. Christ is se celled in respect of the Jathers, who looked for hypomised coming. Some by this understand if helicif of the resurrection. Christ is called to hope; that is, the only foundation we have build our hope of heaven, or any good thin, upon, 1 Tim. 1. I Hope is taken for the eternal salvation, which is the object or end our hope. Tim. 2. 13. Looking for that bless hope. The Lord is called the hope of his peple, Jer. 14. 8. Its is that God in who alone they hope for help; and their hope ihm not be confounded: On the contrary, the ho of the ungodly shall perish, Prov. 10. 28. 1 7. their hope shall be without affect: or the shall live and die without hope. Hope defermmaketh the heart sick: delays in objessify the work any one possesses what he desires, he soul is comforted and revived. Prov. 13. 1 Ny stesh shall rest in hope, Psal. 16. 9. A body shall quietly and sweetly vest in the grain on confident assurance of its resurrection to blessed and immortal life. Abraham against confident assurance of its resurrection to blessed and immortal life. Abraham against confident assurance of its resurrection to blessed and immortal life.

Honour is taken for a recompense, or reward, Num. 24. 11, 1 thought to promote thee unto great honour, but lo, the Lord hath kept thee back from honour; that is, hath deprived thee of the reward I designed for thee. By honour is also understood that advartion which is due to Godonie, Psal. 29. 2. Give unto the Lord the honour due unto his name. So in Mal. 1. 6, If then I be a father, where is mine honour? And in 1 Tim. 1. 17, Unto the only wise God be honour and glory. It is put for an honourable fruction, or office, such as was that of the holy priesthood under the law. Holiuess. True holiuess consists in a conformity loliness. True holiness consists in a conformity be the nature and will of God, whereby a Saint is distinguished from the unreseased world, and is not accusated by their principles and precepts, nor governeed by their maxims and customers. There are different degrees of holiness in the Saints, but sincerity is inseparable from the being of it. All gold, as one observes, is not refined to the same degree and height of purity: but true gold, though in the lowest degree finances, will endure the furnace and the touchstone, and by that trial is discerned from competency mean, infuses an universal habit of holiness, that is comprehencine of all the variety of graces man, infines an universal habit of holiness, that is comprehensive of all the variety of graces to be exercised in the life of a Christian. HIRELING.

III is commanded in the law, that the hireling should be paid at soon as his work is over. Lev. 19. 13. The wages of him that is hired ahall not abide with thee all night until the morning; because his surgent necessities require it for present subsistence. An hireling's day or year, is a kind of provert, signifying a full year, without abating any thing of it. Are not his days like the days of an hireling; Job 7. 1. The days of man are like those of an hireling is aeded to them. And in Job 14. 6, Till he shall accomplish as an hireling his day; to the time of his dark, which he mist for as the hireling for the end of the day. See Isa. 16. 14. 121. 10. In John 10. 12, 13. the hireling is set in opposition to the true chepina. 10. 14. [21. 16. In John 10. 12, 13. the hireling is set in opposition to the true shep-herd; the first neglects the cheep, and aims only at his own advantage; the second loves and guides them carefully. HIGH.

High places, in Hebrew, Bamoth. They are often usen places, in riebrew, Bamoth. They are often rooken of in scripture, and the prophets upbraid the Israelites for nothing with so much seal at for worshipping upon the high places. The de-estroping of these high places is a commendating given but so few princes in the scripture; and stroying of these high places is a commendation given but to few princes in the scripture; and many of them, though otherwise sealous for the observance of the law, had not the courage to run's these eminences, and prevent the people from sacrificing upon them.

Saile the temple was not brill, there was nothing in high places associates were to the tem-Vaile the temple was not built, there was nothing in high places expressly contrary to the law, provided God only was adored there, and that no incruse or victims were offered to idolo-lated; and Samuel offered sacrifices in several places besides the tabernacle, where the ark was not present. I here in David's time, they acrificed to the Lord at Shiloh, Jerusalem, and Gibeon. But after that the temple was with, and a place prepared for the fixed settlement of the art, it was no more allowed of to sacrifice out of Jerusalem. Solomon in the beginning of his reign, went to Gibeon to sacrifice there, I Kings 3.4. But from that time we see no lawful sacrifices offered out of the temple.

Dr. Prideaux thinks it probable that the Propuedaux thinks the people prayed at the techtracte, and at the temple, and in one of which our Savieur is said to have continued all night in prayer to God. Lube 6, 12, were the same which in the Old Testament are called high places. This word comes from the Greek, IIEresis, and tignifes in general, a sect, or choice. It is tonetimes taken in a good sense, as in Acts 26, 5, After the most straitest sect, or herery, of our religion, I lived a Pharisee. Sr. Paul commends the sect, opinion, and may of the Pharisees, os being more learned and strict, and as coming nearer to the truth in many job 20. 29, and the A appointed by God for his things, then the other sect of the Sadducees. But most commonly it is taken in a bad sense, for some jundamental error in matters of religion, adhered to with obstinacy. Sr. Paul enters are mong the works of the free. Sc. 15. 20. And St. Peter says, There shall be false teachers among tous works of the free. Sc. 15. 20. And St. Peter says, There shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, 2 Pet. 2. 1. Sr. Paul says in 1 Cor. 11. 19, There must be also heresies among you, that they which are approved may be made manifest amogy you. It is not simply and absolutely necessary that there should be such schisms and divisions in the church, but God has decreted to permit Satan to them his malice, and men to diverver the lust and correct that their nature by censing such divisions of the truth of and how men to the such schisms and divisions in the church, but God has decreted to permit Satan to them his malice, and men to diverver the lust and correct that their nature by censing such divisions of the house of the such schisms and divisions in the church, but God has decreted to permit Satan to them his malice, and men to diverver the lust and correct the low that the successive of his propile may be such schisms and divisions in the church, but God has decreted to permit Satan to them his malice, and men to diverver the lust and correct the low the him his his propile may be such schisms and divisions in the church, but God has decreted to permit Satan to them his malice, and m truth, and opposition to these corruptions. Christianity was called a sect, or heresy, by Tertullus and the profame Jews, Acts 24.5, 14. We have found this man a pessilient fellow, and ring-leader of the sect of the Neuromes. This i confess, seps 54. Paul, that after the way which they call hereay, so worship I the God of my fathers.

SECT.

From the very beginning of the Christian church

As to the Sects, or Haresies among the Jews, Sea Suct.

From the very beginning of the Christian church there were very dangerous and pernicious heraties; for the most estential decirines of religion were attacked, such as the divinity of Christ, his quality of Messish, the reality and tried of his incarnation, the resurrection of the dead, the liberty of Christians, and their freedom from the legal ceremonses, and other points of this nature. The most ancient of these Joundars of hereys, is Simon the megician, who desired to buy the gift of God with money, and discremards set himself mp for Messish, and tiod Almighty the Creator, Acts 8, 9, 10. The false apostles, against whom St. Paul so often peaks in his episites, had a mind that the faithful should receive circumcision, and subject themselves to all the legal observances. Gal. 5, 11, 6, 12.

The Nicolaitans allowed of a community of romen, and without any scruple committed the most ignomissions actions, and followed the superstitions of heatherism. It is easied, they know over to the sect of the Cainists, who acknowledged a power superior to that of the Creator. St. John speaks of the Nicolaitanes, as a scat of heretics them subsisting, and producing great disorders in the churches of Asia, Rev. 2, 6, 15. At the same time there were false Christs, and false peaket, 1 John 2, 18, 52, 2 John 7. St. Paul speaks of Hymeneus and Philetus, who departed from the truth, saying that the resurrection is already past, 2 Tin. 2, 17, 18. He foresold that in the last times there would be some who should fursake the faith, and give themselves up to the spirit of error, and the doctrines of dovits, 1 Tim. 4, 15, 1° teer and Jude forest the same thing, 2 Pet. 2, 1 Jude 18. Had herein they only copy what Jesus Christ himself had taid in the gaspel, Mat. 7, 15, 124, 24, Beware of false prophets, and shall alway great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they they shall deceive the very eject. For there shall arise talse Christs, and talse prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insonuch that, if it were possible, they they shall deceive the very elect.

In Hebrew, School. This word most commonly significs the grave, or the place or state of the dead. Jacob says, Gen. 37. 35, I will go down into nifies the grave, or the place or state of the dead. Jacob says, Gen. 37. 35, I will go down into the grave, unto my son, mourning. I will die with grief, I will never leave mourning till I die. So in Gen. 42. 38, If mischief befal Benjamin, then ahall ye bring down my grey hairs with sorrow to the grave. You will make me, who am morn away already, to die with grief. The compitators, Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, war sunshowed up in the earth, and descended quick into the grave; they were buried alive. Num. 16. 30, 31. Thou will not leave my soul in hell; Thou will not suffer my body toputrify in the grave, Fsal. 16. 10. which is prophetically spoken of the Messiah. And in Psal. 55. 15. Let death seize upon them, and let them go down quick into hell, into the grave. Jonah 12. And in Psal. 55. 15. Let death seize upon them, and let them go down quick into hell, into the grave. Jonah 12. This word School is sometimes put for hell, the place where the wicked or the demned are tornamed; as in Job 11. 8, The secrets of God's providence are high as heaven, and deeper than bell. And in Psal. 51, II liell and destruction are before the Lord; the place ond state of the dammed are hown to God. The wicked shall be turned into hell, Psa. 9. 17.

destruction are before the Lord; the place and state of the damned are known to God. The wicked shall be turned into hell, Pra. 9. 17.

21 the happiness of heaven is expressed in seripture under the idea of a feast or wedding, at which there is a great deal of light, joy, and pleasure; so hell, in the New Testament, is set forth by such representations as may powerfully instruct and terrify even the most carnal man. Nothing is more intolerably painful, than suffering the violence of fire energed with brimatone; and hell is described by a lake of fire and brimstone, Rev. 19. 20. | 21. 8. It represented as a dismally dark place, where there is nothing but grief; sadness, vezation, rage, despair, and gnathing of testh, like one excluded or shus out, during the downwise of the night, and severity of the cold, Mat. 8. 12. The wicked in hell not only undergo the provishment of sense, but also that of four, which is a separation from God, a privation of his sight and of the heatific vision. Add to these the sternity of their missry, which above all other considerations makes it insterable: Their worm dieth not, and their fire is not quenched, Mark 9. 48.

By the gates of hell, Mat. 16. 18, is meant the power and policy of the devil, and his instruments. The socrows of hell, the pains ot hell; that is, deadly or killing pains, such agonics and horrors as dying persons used to fees within themselves, or such sorrows at bring to the brink of the grave, Phal. 18. 5, | 110. 3. Deut. 32. 92. 2, fire shall burn unto the lowest A. 25am. 92.6, sorrows of h. compassed me, Ptel. 18. 5 and 18. 4, deeper than A. what cannot thou know? 20. 6. The heaven of heavens is the highest heaven, as secretary assumes over all creatures, as the heaven of heavens is the highest heaven, as the song of songs is the most arcellent song, the God of gods, the Lord of lords; the greatest of the gods, the most powerful of lords. From these passages is appears, that the Horevs acknowledged three heavens: (1) The acrial heaven, where the birds fly, the winds blow, and the showers are formed. (2) The heaven, or firmament, wherein the stars are disposed. (3) The heaven of heavens, or the third heaven, which is the place of God's raidence, the dwelling of angels and the blassed. This is the true palace of God, entirely separated from the impurities and imperfections, the alterations and changes, of the lower world; where he reigns in eternal peace. The enjoyment of the divine presence in heaven, is the represent and correlating felicity of the saints; whateover is requirits to their complete blessedness is enjoyed there; there is an exemption from all evils; sin and all the penal consequences are abolished; the body is revived to a glorious life, and the soul lives in communion with God and Christ. The understanding others thall be clearly enlightened with the knowledge of God. Here the revolution of God, in his works and word, is according to our copacities, but in heaven it is most glorious, and our faculties are raised and refined to receive it. The communion also of the angels and saints in heaven affords the purest pleasure. And the fuhness of joy in heaven is everlasting, without defect, and without end.
